

Lauren Rothlisberger
Managing Partner
Everett & Harvey

Lauren Rothlisberger is the managing partner for Everett & Harvey, a small real estate investment shop focusing on value-add self-storage and industrial. Driven by the desire to produce income that will help in the transition out of military life (when that time comes), Lauren turned to commercial real estate. Trained in the trenches of “military-wife-life” and mom of four, Lauren is uniquely positioned to acquire and operate real estate. Much like this lifestyle, real estate investing requires being “impatiently-patient.” You must allow for time to compound on efforts while always looking for a way to actively add value.

Lauren has an SMB tech background combined with years owning and operating a small portfolio of single-family homes. Transitioning into commercial real estate allows her to take advantage of her background in both RE and SMB technology to run efficient, cash-producing properties.